

Apl 6 Friday. fine & v. dry at times & duty Trade brisk. up town to make purchases at Peacock & Co's P.M.

To St John's in the evening to hear Mr. Hattau lecture, subject "The Parable of the Tower." a very good, interesting lecture, he spoke of it as the Parable: the first, the ground work of all the others. I he bade us to look after our fallow ground, to prepare it for the seed, & when the seed is sown to cherish it, & to watch its growth carefully; we are indeed stewards in a sense & we shall have to render an account as to whether the best has been made of the ground allotted to us.

At home writing often.

Apl 7 Saturday, showery last night, S.V. a.m.
H.C. P.M. Trade brisk week above the average.

late in closing. Hail in the evening

Apl 8 Sunday, ^{dry} fine, S.V. a.m. We calmed down blue sky H.W. in the evening. So School and ch. as usual, P.M. after Lessons, I read the Rule Song to the whole School. Library Sunday, left home.

When I arrived at McMurdo's Inn. I found Mr. & Mrs.
Hoddon there both well, Mr. Hoddon soon left for Governor's Bay. We all went to ch leaving house without an inmate. Just at the close ^{was heard} of the Second lesson the clang of the fire bell, the sound of which is always unpleasant, was then more so, a quaking doubtless went through the bottom of all present, for who could tell but "that its al ~~dry~~ place." So I thought, so I felt, so with many more I went out to ascertain its whereabouts, on nearing the corner of St. Asaph & Manchester Sts, it proved to be a gorge fence, so I hastened back to ch. my return satisfied others, & on the return if more, the congregation again settled quietly done, listening intently to a most interesting sermon, preached by Mr. Hattau, from Job 22 & 14 rule; He pointed out the different clouds that shroud this fair world of ours, also those that darken & counte^s, families & individuals, & asked us to explain the cause if we could for he could not. He then said that we must not look at the cloud, but try to look behind it, & then we should see the Hand, of