

bid my last farewell, on my return to the vessel found a second canary apparently in the agonies of death, & administered a warm bath. 29th Sunday, on the whole a pleasant one, but missed the comforts of home for the first time, bird no better, gave it another warm bath, but all was of no avail as it died in the course of the morning. A short service was held in the saloon by one of the missionaries of the British and Foreign Sailors Society, it was very interesting, though the conductor was somewhat uneducated, he took occasion to observe how much meaning there is in the word Gospel, God offering Salvation Peace & Eternal Life, through the merits of his Son, also that the A.P.C. of the gospel was all have sinned & come short of the glory of God

Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ & thou shalt be saved come unto me all ye that labour & are heavy laden & I will give you rest 30th after performing sundry necessary operations in the cabin, took a constitutional walk, and in company with two young ladies passengers, arrived impudently by observing the countenances & actions of an interesting couple seated on a bench in front of the Marlborough Hotel, Gravesend, they appeared to enjoy each others society, though the gentleman had the frequency of his pocket handkerchief. Mr. P. was one of
