on beams & covered with sand & rocks) are three ventilators which also let in the light during the day. My bunk, built up on sand-bags, is on one side, Ralph's on the other, & Frank's is at the end. We have wooden shelves above our heads on which is stowed our gear & equipment. It is amazing how comfortable one can make a dug-out, by improvising. We use candles at night, but hope to get a kerosene lantern soon.

There are 6 of us in the Intelligence Section & a Lieutenant. We have just completed our office, a dug-out about 15 ft. by 8 with a table, boxes of gear, hundreds of maps & an easel & blackboard. During the week, we have done map reading, a compass traverse & had lectures on our work generally. We have a truck & will be going about to get "the key of the land."

Yesterday afternoon we did our washing. We are allowed a water-bottle of water a day, &
