ally Saints, the Anglican Cathedral in Cairo. It is a beautiful stone structure.
There were forty or fifty guests there, nice tenths of them in uniform or a few civilian women - friends of Andrews. After the reception, we pretented to the N.B. Club and had a buffet wedding breakfast in the common room.
It was very enjoyable.

About a week ago, we held a ceremonial parade for the General, amid very pretty surroundings. We were taken to the ground in trucks and marched back in time for lunch. At the parade, we marched past in columns of
nines, with the band.
