too & they played on yesterday before the show. Our chorus of 12 men were dressed in long navy trousers with red stripe down the side, red sashes round the waist & white shirts.

For the finale, the chorus stood in the form of a V & at the appropriate moment, I, dressed in long white frock with head gear, & with 12 stripes of red, white & blue hanging from my waist, walked to the centre of the stage. The 12 chiefs of the choirs march in single file at band & march backwards to form a big red, white & blue fan. Yet at the same time the band changes its march tune to God Defends N.Z. & at the back of the stage the N.Z. flag slowly unfolds till it hangs at full length. It was most
