

Chapter IV: Suburban Libraries.

80-113

Early growth, 1867-73; Provincial Government grant, 1873; its results; Acts of the General Government, 1869, 1875, 1877; library development, 1900-1936; attitude of the City Council; the nature of the suburban library system; the question of membership; the problem of distribution; the need for centralisation; attempted reform, 1928; criticisms by noted authorities; a Councillor versus "The Press"; the suburban outlook.

Chapter V: Juvenile Libraries.

114-132

Their value; early growth 1908-24; effect of opening of new library, 1924; story hours and reading clubs, 1925-33; Carnegie Report, 1934; rapid development, 1935-48; school libraries to 1939; a schools' library association 1939; valuable work under war-time conditions; position in 1948; post-primary developments; work of the suburban libraries in the juvenile sphere; a travelling library for country schools; the Country Library Service; the attitude to juvenile libraries in Christchurch.

Chapter VI: Conclusions.

133-136

The need for good library facilities; an estimate of the value of this thesis; the outlook of the pioneers; the different outlook of present day citizens; the problem created; the solution; hopeful signs.

Appendices.

- |  |     |
|--|-----|
| A. The Canterbury Museum and Library Ordinance, 1870.  | 138 |
| B. The Canterbury Public Library Act, 1873.  | 140 |
| C. Deed of transfer of Literary Institute to the Superintendent of the Province of Canterbury, 1873. | 141 |
| D. Letter from the Chairman of the Board of Governors to the Mayor of Christchurch, 1908.            | 142 |
| E. The Canterbury Public Library Act, 1948.  | 144 |

Bibliography

146